Sotheby's International Realty has announced that Gregory Kiely, vice president and managing broker of the Sotheby's International Realty Cape Cod Brokerages, was named the 2019 Massachusetts Realtor of the year by the Massachusetts Association of Realtors. Kiely was presented the award at MAR's Professional Awards Reception, which was held in September at the MGM Springfield.

The recipient is selected annually from among the nominees of the 13 local associations of Realtors and more than 25,000 Realtors in Massachusetts. Judging for the award is based on volunteerism to the Realtor organization on the local, state and national levels, service to the local community, and business accomplishments.

A Realtor since 2005, Kiely has been a member of MAR Board of Directors since 2012, is currently the Cape Cod Regional Representative. He is a member of the executive committee, leadership development committee and the professional standards committee. He has recently served on the audit committee and the strategic planning task force.

On the local level, Kiely is serving as president-elect of Cape Cod and Islands Association of Realtors and Cape Cod & Islands Multiple Listing Service. He served as treasurer in 2018 and is currently a member of the Cape Cod Association's executive committee. Kiely served on the board of directors of the Greater Boston Association of Realtors from 2011 to 2016. Kiely has served on the Greater Boston association's professional standards, grievance, government affairs, technology, programming, publications and strategic planning committees.

On the national level, Kiely is serving on the 2019 Resort and Second Home Real Estate Committee.

Kiely is a Realtors Political Action Committee major investor and is a graduate of the MAR and CCIAOR leadership academies.
